Treasurer's Report.

By their extended report of the financial transactions and standing of the town, the Selectmen, as has been the custom here, have reduced the task of the Treasurer, as regards his report, to that of little more than an acknowledgment of the amount of money committed to his hands, and a statement of the sum total of disbursements.

Total amount of receipts for the year ending

REPORT
OF THE
SUPERINTENDING SCHOOL COMMITTEE
OF THE
TOWN OF BRISTOL,
FOR THE YEAR ENDING MARCH 1, 1879.

DISTRICT No. 1.

Had one term of eleven weeks, taught by Miss ANNIE M. RANDOLPH. Whole number, 9; average attendance, 7. This was Miss Randolph's first effort at teaching and it was very commendable. She corrected many things which I noticed at my first visit, put the scholars under good discipline and endeavored to impress very thoroughly what she taught. Haying, long walks and very warm weather caused several absences, so that only three were present at my last visit, but these did very well indeed. Some of the writing books showed much improvement and the scholars were prompt in their recitations. Spelling, good. Neither teacher or school can be properly judged where the scholars are taken out before the close of the school, and did parents realize the injustice they do to both, they would exert themselves to the utmost to prevent it. Had one scholar been promptly expelled from school as she should have been, the teacher would have been happier, the scholars made more improvement, and results have been better for all. "When patience ceases to be a virtue" and the greatest good for the whole calls for decisive action, better "cut off the right hand" than let the whole suffer. Miss Annie had my sympathies in her earnest efforts to do all she could. Wages of teacher per month, including board, $16. Whole amount of money, $43.98. O. B. Fogg, Prudential Committee.

DISTRICT No. 2.—See Graded School.

DISTRICT No. 3.

Had one term of twelve weeks taught by Miss MARY H. CLAY. Whole number, 9; average, 8. This school was composed mostly of small scholars who appeared very well at my first visit. At the last there was a good deal of disorder—whispering, playing and going out. The class in written Arithmetic reviewed the work of last year, with no real loss. There was some improvement in the younger reading classes. Writing, fair for scholars of their age. Miss Clay had had some experience in teaching in this town, and had she been more energetic and alert, her efforts would have been more successful. No scholar reported on the Roll of Honor. Wages of teacher, $14.17. Whole amount of money, $42.53. O. P. Hall, Committee.

DISTRICT No. 4.

Miss IDA M. DOLLOFF taught one whole term of six and a half weeks in this district. Whole number, 5; average, nearly the same. The three older pupils were not absent during the term. Two little boys happily came in to help furnish employment for the teacher and learned to read quite well. The others worked well, necessarily reviewing a part of last year's work, but the term was too short to effect any great improvement. Neither teacher nor school can be fairly criticised under such circumstances. The scholars forget nearly all they have learned the year previous, the teacher often finds them deficient in the first principles, therefore very little advancement can be made. Miss Dolloff's energies could be well spent on a wider field. Wages of teacher, $17. Whole amount, $27.47. Hiram Heath, Committee.

DISTRICT No. 5.

Had one term of twelve weeks, taught by Miss SARA M. SWETT. Whole number, 6; average, 6. Not a half day's absence reported. Two were from Bridgewater. I notice considerable tardiness, but as the scholars live a long distance from the school house, possibly they are excusable. This was Miss Swett's first experience, and being one of the scholars in the district, she succeeded better than I anticipated. The scholars had a very good knowledge of History; the reading was fair, but the writing did not show that improvement I hoped to see. No visits but my own reported. I suspect the people were afraid of taking cold from the draughts in the school-house. A district unable to fix the date of the first existence of their school-house might properly be recommended to the mercies of "The Society for the prevention of cruelty to animals." Hope the mothers will try the influence of "the power that lies behind the throne." Wages of teacher, $14. Whole amount of money, $40.98. J. M. Dame, Committee.

DISTRICT No. 6.

Miss CARO T. GORDON, of New Hampton, taught the nine weeks' term with very evident success, as the scholars and parents were so well pleased that they raised money for four weeks' private school.

Whole number, 14; average, 13.5. Five were not absent during both terms. A majority of the scholars are over fifteen, and I think they tried very hard to make the school both pleasant and profitable. One of them studied University Algebra and Philosophy, keeping with his class at New Hampton. The advanced classes in Arithmetic spent a good deal of time on their lessons with great profit to themselves. The younger ones had some miscellaneous exercises that were very interesting. History was used as a reading book, and also as one of the studies. A lack in their early training in reading is very evident, but they try to overcome it as far as possible. Miss Gordon is energetic, and apparently has a firm faith in persistent doing, and keen watchfulness in the school room, so that it is too warm a place for sluggards and idlers. Wages, $20.60. Whole amount, $49.82. D. Y. Emmons, Committee.

DISTRICT No. 7.

Had one term of seven weeks taught by Miss LAURA WHITTEMORE, of Bridgewater. Whole number, 4; average, 4. The success of a school does not always depend upon its length, as seven weeks with a teacher of ability and experience accomplished more for this school than the longer term last year under different conditions. Miss Whittemore's efforts were very commendable, and the improvement was good for the time. One of the pupils is nearly as far advanced as the average scholars of her age in the most of her studies, while she excels many of them in writing. The school-house was as neat as it possibly could be, and all seemed eager to do their very best. What may be done has been well demonstrated to the people, and I hope they will be constrained to raise a little more money. Let them see to it that the children are not cheated out of their rights. Wages of teacher, $8.00. Board given. Whole amount, $15.39. H. C. Homan, Prudential Committee.

DISTRICT No. 8.

Had two terms of school of ten and sixteen weeks respectively, taught by Miss N. FRANCES EASTMAN, of Laconia. Whole number, first term, 12; average 10. Second, 17; average, 13. Miss Eastman had taught several terms before, and although I was somewhat dissatisfied at the close of the first term with the seeming inflation, a few hints accomplished considerable retrenchment and reform. The scholars went back over the same ground to quite an extent, and at the close were able show more thoroughness in what they had been over. This is not the only school that labors under the same difficulty by any means; but it was fortunate in that it had an opportunity, by its length, of being corrected. Three scholars studied the "higher branches." George Breck, a lad of ten, won the prize of a new writing book, by his great improvement in writing, decided upon by Mr. Drake and myself. Alice Wicom did nearly as well, while the whole general improvement in this branch exceeded that of any school in town. The younger ones, I think, read very well, but the older ones do not try to correct their faults in reading as they should. The class in Percentage, Interest, &c., have rather more than an average comprehension of business transactions in these principles. Miss Eastman possesses a love for her work and scholars, which added to a little more energy would make her very successful. The people assessed themselves $50 extra and are interested in their school, fathers and mothers looking in upon it occasionally. Mr. Drake was present at my last visits which was very gratifying. The questions in the Register were answered much better than usual. Three scholars were on the Roll of Honor the 1st term, two the 2nd; while one, Miss Minnie Drake was present every day for the year. Wages of teacher, $20. Whole amount including that raised by extra tax, $135.43. C. N. Drake, Committee.

DISTRICT NO. 9.

Mr. HERBERT E. DRAKE, a graduate from our school, taught sixteen weeks in this district. Whole number, 8; average. 7. One scholar from District Number 7. All were present at my last visit. One scholar studied Algebra and Philosophy, and there were two in Book-Keeping. The books used in the latter compare very favorably both in writing and spelling, with those of our High School scholars. The reading was seventy-five per cent. better than when I first heard it. The two classes in Arithmetic were doing good work, and the three tyros in reading made a good beginning. As I intended to leave town, my last visit was four weeks before the close of school. This was Mr. Drake's first effort, but his conscientiousness and ability were so impressed upon his pupils that I knew I could predicate good results, which I am glad to know were witnessed by both committee and parents. Wages of teacher per month, $12. Board given. Whole amount, $51.54. Nellie Mudgett was present during the whole term.

In concluding the second annual report of the schools that have been under my charge, I am glad to be able to say that the most of them have been quite satisfactory, under the present existing conditions. One short term in a whole year must necessarily be a bane to any great progress, and such a school needs a first rate teacher to effect any more than a bird's eye improvement. I think the small amount of money has generally been judiciously expended. Parents and committees have better evinced their interest by visiting the schools and co-operating with the teachers, while teachers and scholars have worked happily and conscientiously together, with scarcely an exception. Our State compels all parents and guardians to send their children to school three months in a year—who shall be responsible for finding the school for them to attend? We have expended a good deal of money for the protection of the traveling public—have extirpated tramps from our midst; now let the children's rights be protected, that they may be saved from becoming tramps and criminals, as ignorance is one of the fertile sources of crime. There is too much superficiality in our teaching nowadays. Scholars are put into the "higher branches" before they have any knowledge of the lower, and when they attempt to impart elementary instruction they, themselves, are found sadly wanting. A large per cent. of candidates for teachers' positions cannot read a newspaper editorial intelligibly, while their writing and spelling is often shocking. How, then, shall they teach if they have not been taught? A great deal might be accomplished if more habits of observation were inculcated, with less confinement to those of mere book routine. Let scholars be taught to notice how thoughts are expressed in well chosen language; how words are spelled in the books they read; the size and locality of the different countries on the maps, and some of those sensible and improved methods be adopted, that tend to develop the child's mind in regard to what he will need in practical life, and we should be immense gainers in real progress. But teachers are human, and they cannot be expected to do everything; and, often times, having an eye single to their bread and butter, they, just like other people, strive to keep up appearances on what little capital they have by parading all the virtues of their smart scholars, and keeping the dull ones out of sight as far as possible, hoping thereby to make a favorable impression on the parents and superintendent especially.

A little more efficient and thorough supervising might possibly be beneficial. Giving an hour's sitting once or twice a term, with a very dignified hearing of parrot-like recitations, making a stereotyped speech wholly incomprehensible to the scholars, with an approving nod and smile, is hardly a critic's business. Let there be a perfect understanding between supervisors and teachers, that they are to be judged by what they do in their honest daily work, and that this will be tested by personal questions to each scholar, dull as well as smart. The "cue will soon be taken," as good teachers and scholars demand and enjoy just this keen, intelligent and kindly criticism, having very little respect for any other. Let all supervisors use their efforts to stamp out the different miasmatic influences that exist in and around our school-houses, which they have the power to do, and a great reform will be accomplished.

Conscious of having tried to do my duty, if I have failed in coming up to my own standard of right in this respect, I hope it may be attributed to an error in judgment, rather than feeling.

I have made no changes in books during this last year, except to substitute a writing-book with sliding copies, which enabled the scholar to keep his copy instead of his own work constantly before him; and where teachers have paid attention to writing, a very great improvement has been evident. I found Cornell's old and new editions of Geography, Monteith's, and a Physical work by Warren. As it was impossible to have so many classes, I effected an exchange of Cornell's for Monteith's in District No. 2, but deemed it unnecessary to make any change in those districts where there were only one or two scholars in a class. I have always furnished books at introduction cost prices, often paying for them long before receiving my pay, but the ten per cent. discount, ranging from ten cents on the highest priced books to one cent on the lowest, granted me on settlement, has compensated me for postages and advanced money.

I have always endeavored to know neither friend nor foe in school matters, and I am very grateful to both for all the aid they have rendered me in my efforts to do their children good.

NANCY A. DURGIN, S. S. Committee.

UNION DISTRICT No. 2.

Whole number of weeks of school in this district, 30 for each school or grade.

The Primary Department was taught by Miss LILLA A. NELSON, whose previous record as a teacher in the same school recommended her to the Board, and who, during the past year, has been, without doubt to the Board, faithful to her trust.

The Intermediate Department was also in charge of one whom the scholars had become accustomed to meet in the school-room. Miss KATE F. GEORGE has labored faithfully in behalf of the interests committed to her care in this district, in the past few years, and the Board have no hesitation in pronouncing the year's work just closed to be a profitable one to her pupils.

In the Grammar and High School Departments the work of the year was commenced and concluded by teachers who came among us, as such, or at least as teachers in these places, for the first time. Both had had experience in teaching elsewhere, and both came eminently well recommended.* The Board can speak in high terms of them now. Their labors have been effectual.

The tabular statement submitted herewith may be referred to for some of the information usually found in the school reports.

The rolls of honor in the Primary Department show, first term, 6; second, 11; third, 10 names. In the Intermediate Department, first term, 5; second, 10. In the Grammar Department, first term, 7; second, 11; third, 9. In the High School Department, first term, 6; second, 15; third 15.
